

POOR OUTLOOK FOR AMERICAN EXPORTS

New Britain Manufacturer Back From World Tour

The immediate future for products of American factories in other countries does not look so rosy, according to George P. Hart, former president of the board of directors of the Stanley Works, who has just returned from a trip around the world. With high wages, short hours and a lowering of individual efficiency in America, the prospects for an increase in trade throughout the world do not look so bright at this time, he stated yesterday.

Mr. Hart left New Britain about the middle of January. His journey took him through the Mediterranean Sea, with short stops at Gibraltar, Algiers and Cairo, stopping at the latter town for several days.

The first stop of any consequence was made at Bombay, India, which was some time in February. The weather at this time was extremely hot, he stated. While in Bombay the New Britain manufacturer saw much evidence of Lander, Fry & Clark, Corbin Lock, Stanley Works and Stanley Rule and Level products.

Cities of Delhi, Hara and Benares in India were visited. At Delhi is the seat of the British government and the residence of Lord Reading, now viceroy of India. Delhi showed a very pronounced English atmosphere in what was called "the foreign section." There were modern hotels, homes, etc. The traveler found the common people of India in a very sad condition. Signs of poverty, destitution, filth and religious fanaticism were seen on all sides. Most of the poverty he feels, is due to the excess of population, the natives existing mostly on agriculture and the country not producing enough to feed its people. Much foodstuffs is purchased from England. In the country districts where the population was not so dense the natives seemed to be in better condition and health.

The campaign of "passive resistance," or silent revolt under the leadership of Gandhi was noticeable. English-made goods are being boycotted wherever possible.

The political situation was found to be much the same as in the Philippines, the war having left them with a desire for self government. The silent resistance, according to Mr. Hart amounts to a turning back of the clock and returning to primitive methods of hand manufacture.

A pitifully depressed atmosphere was found in Benares, which is the seat of the Hindu religion. This is the city where the pilgrims go to bathe in the Ganges, so as to make sure their souls will be saved in the life beyond. To this city also flock impoverished beggars who go there to die, firm in the belief that if their bodies are thrown into the river their future salvation is assured. The river used for the disposal of the dead, half consumed bodies burned on piles of burning sticks on the banks, and in all instances a regular open sewer served both for bathing and drinking water, and to the American and English traveler it seems a miracle that there is not more disease and desolation than there really is. The night Mr. Hart and his party were there, there was an eclipse of the moon, which also has a religious significance and so great was the rush of half crazed religious fanatics to the water that 250 were drowned that night.

Simple Way to Take Off Fat

There can be nothing simpler than taking a convenient little tablet each day until your weight is reduced to normal. That's all—just purchase a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets from your druggist. For one dollar, the same price the world over, follow directions—on starvation dieting or "hunger exercising." Eat substantial food—be as busy as you like and keep on getting slimmer. And the best part of Marmola Prescription Tablets is they are harmless. That's your absolute safeguard. Purchase them from your druggist, or send direct to Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

On the island of Ceylon a totally different type of people were found. Here is one of the most beautiful countries in the world, the people are clean, industrious, prosperous and contented.

The attraction at Hangoon was the trained elephants who handled large logs of teak wood, drawing them from the river down which they floated from the forests to the saw mills, turning them over and placing them, using trunk, feet and tasks with almost human intelligence. The religious pagoda, known as the Schwe Dagon, a tremendous monument surrounded on its base by thousands of hand carved images of Buddha, was another attraction there.

Through the straits of Malacca to Singapore where England hopes some day to establish a naval base, the party traveled to the island of Java, under the control of the Dutch. Here was noticed the thrifty Dutch atmosphere, and was such a great contrast to India, according to Mr. Hart, that if the two places are indication of the administrative abilities of the two governing countries, then Holland is far ahead of Great Britain. The country is noted for its irrigation canals, similar to those of Holland.

In Manila the political turmoil was noticed. The natives have been left to their own devices to a more or less extent that they demand self government at a time when they are not in a position to handle it. General Leonard Wood is trying to remedy troubles there and the people object to the domination of the U. S. government. What the island people want, according to the impression gained by the visitors, is the protecting arm of the United States simply when needed to pull them out of trouble. Students of the situation there, advocate a continuance of the present administration under a definite agreement for 25 years, without being influenced in any way by the changes of administration in this country.

From Manila to Hong Kong, China, was the next stop and from there to Tokyo. Japan is showing all indications of recovering from the earthquake and an enormous number of galvanized iron roofs were seen, particularly in the Yokohama district. Practically all of the buildings which suffered slight damage have been repaired, although a scene of desolation is found in certain sections where the damage was most severe. In general, business seems to have returned to normal. In Tokyo was found one of the most original and beautiful hotels in the world.

Because of labor conditions following the war, the uncertain rate of exchange and other conditions, the Stanley Works plant in Japan has been closed down indefinitely.

The first time a tourist steamer ever stopped at the South Sea Islands was on this trip. The islands of Guam, Fiji, Tahiti and Samoa were visited. The old primitive life seems to have disappeared and the town now resembles the old American frontier towns in the early '80's.

The travelers saw American and New Britain products in all parts of the world, but returned feeling that the United States cannot compete under existing conditions with foreign trade to any noticeable degree.

MOTHER, WITH BABY, ROBS BANK CLERK

18 Year Old Girl Uses Gun—Caught With $1,158 Booty

Peoria, Ill., May 28.—Carrying her two-year-old baby, Norma Anderson, 18, yesterday robbed the Steenburg bank at Farmington, Illinois, of $1,158 and forced a taxicab driver, the town marshal's son, to aid her escape to Hanna City, where she was arrested and the money recovered.

After fake telephone calls had lured the marshal and day policeman away from Farmington, the girl ordered a taxicab and was driven to the bank. She faced Clyde Steenburg, the cashier, with a command to "stick 'em up," and when he treated the matter as a joke, produced a pistol from a leather holster beneath her blouse. Steenburg complied with her re-enforced command to fill up a sack she placed on the counter, using $1 bills.

The girl shifted the pistol to the hand of the arm holding the baby, picked up the sack and dashed to the waiting taxicab. Stripping a handkerchief from her face she dug the pistol into the driver's back and directed him by a circuitous route towards Hanna City. From there the driver, David Suttles, hurried back towards Farmington, and directed a posse to the girl's refuge.

She contended that she had taken the money because the bank owed her $1,000 and had refused to pay. The bank's officials asserted she was unknown to them. She is the daughter of Levi Anderson, a farmer who lives two miles south of Farmington.

Stan Ashley to Coach Team—First Practice to Be Held on Thursday Evening

The Mohawk A. C., one of the youngest and most active athletic clubs in the city are making their bid for a place in the baseball circles of the city and are laying plans for a team to be put in the field. Probably the best known players on the team are Rice and Benke, both these players having played with teams on the coast. Rice having covered the keystone sack for his ship team while in the navy and Benke having played with a fast semi-pro team in San Francisco, Calif.

Tomorrow evening the following players will report at Walnut Hill park: Benke, McCue, Rice, Johnston, Norfield, Jackson, Chapman, Bratton, Grace, Cosgrove, Serkan, Gilbert, Lanpher, Ronella, Burns, Grip, Clynes and Turner.
